

Our Commitment.

If there's one aspect of the Bird-in-Hand experience that's most memorable, it's our employees. Our staff members truly love what they do, and they're eager to make your visit to Lancaster County picture-perfect.

They're the ones who know where to find that extra-firm pillow you'd like. And where there's an off-road farm stand brimming with fresh fruits and veggies. And the stories? Oh, the local stories they can share. Don't be surprised if you're soon sharing photos of children and grandchildren.

We look forward to your arrival.

A History of Hospitality.

Nestled amidst acres of unspoiled farmland and along a AAA cultural scenic byway sits the village of Bird-in-Hand, home to the Bird-in-Hand Family Inn & Restaurant. Since the hamlet first sprung up in 1734, it has been welcoming travelers on their journeys along this Colonial roadway. Through the Smucker family and its amazing employees, that tradition continues.

The Smuckers moved to Bird-in-Hand at the turn of the century to farm this fertile land. They soon were caught up in the spirit of hospitality. Forty years ago the Smuckers hosted their first guests at an inn and restaurant they opened across from the family farm.

Visitors were immediately taken by the genuine welcome they received and the farm-fresh foods they enjoyed. It's a culture of warmth and hospitality that has been passed from generation to generation of Smucker family members and employee to employee. No surprise, our guests have caught the spirit and return year after year.
